

BORROWED TIME

Movement XV Lives on

A shadow falls, the world turns gray,
your voice is gone, but here to stay.
The nights are cold, the days feel long,
but in my heart, you're still so strong.

The pain is deep, it cuts so wide,
like roaring waves, a crashing tide.
But through the storm, I hear you say,
"I'm with you now, I'll light your way."

I know you'd want me to stand tall,
to rise again and never fall.
You walk with me in all I do,
my love lives on, forever true.

I hear your voice in silent air,
a whisper soft, a love so rare.
You gave me strength, you taught me grace,
I see your light in every place.

The weight is heavy, but I fight,
I chase the dawn, embrace the light.
I won't forget, but I will try,
to live for you and touch the sky.

I know you'd want me to stand tall,
to rise again and never fall.
You walk with me in all I do,
my love lives on, forever true.

I'll break the chains of sorrow's hand,
and walk the path that you had planned.
Your love still burns, it sets me free,
you're in my heart, eternally.

I know you'd want me to stand tall,
to rise again and never fall.
You walk with me in all I do,
my love lives on, forever true.